MARKET PERFORMANCE IN 2023

Small and Mid Caps had underperformed in last 1 year from November 2021 year. We had started accumulating high-quality companies in Consumer Auto Engineering & Agri Space last couple of years as we saw value in those companies compared to the Index & some of overvalued sectors like IT & Pharma & Banking. At the start of 2023 Alphabet Investment had taken a call that broader markets (small and mid cap stocks) are looking good and will outperform larger companies.

A good rally in 2023 was seen where small cap and mid cap companies have outperformed larger conglomerates as can be clearly seen from the graphs. India's economic expansion has lead to increased consumer spending. Exponential growth due to a robust local demand coupled with PLI scheme and China +1 and Europe + 1 policies along with an increased awareness has peaked investment in businesses leading to a further increase in valuations.

Our portfolios are a mirror reflection of what we had advised and focused on broader mid cap index and quality market leading small cap companies which have done well in our clients' investment portfolios

The current Sensex high is no reason to panic, it is important to focus on asset allocation and rebalance your portfolio as per investors investment profile. Further value lies in undiscovered stocks still available at attractive valuations and we must try and add these gems to our portfolio.

2024 OUTLOOK

India remains an attractive destination for foreign corporations due to its advanced technology, skilled labour and large scale. MSMEs are expected to play a crucial role in creating employment opportunities, revenue streams, capacity building, and supportive environments for infrastructure, manufacturing, and consumption. High-growth sectors in 2024 include fast-moving consumer goods, fintech, healthcare, insurance, electric cars, renewable energy, IT, real estate, and R&D. The digital economy is expected to account for more than 20% of India's GDP by 2026. The Indian IT sector is growing and is expected to bring in US$350 billion by 2030, accounting for 8% of the country's GDP. Investment-led development in emerging businesses such as batteries, green hydrogen, biotechnology, AVGC, and semiconductor chip design is expected in 2024.

India's upcoming general elections in April-May 2024 will impact the central government's economic objectives, including federal spending plans and job creation and infrastructure development announcements. Major industrial states will not elect new chief ministers, and foreign companies should seek local expert guidance to optimise incentives and gain clarity on sector preferences. Most states have competitive Industrial Policies offering various incentives for job creation, technology, intellectual property, location, and tax benefits.

Conclusion

In 2024, India's economy appears to be stable and on the rise. According to projections, India will become the world's third biggest economy by 2027, with GDP exceeding $5 trillion. Positive trends are projected in services and manufacturing, particularly in education, healthcare, information technology, and professional and business services, all of which speak well for the real estate industry.

Although the general elections may provide an X-factor, global investors may anticipate Indian authorities to retain a consistent focus on business stability, job growth, industrialization, and a developing digital economy.
